Going For Independence

Services to unlock your ability

Going For Independence (GFI) is an independent social enterprise based in the community, specialising in providing information on equipment and adaptations to help you to live independently.

Providing the key to unlock your ability

Following a call to our office, an Independent Assessor will arrange to visit you at home. They will listen to your concerns and inform you about equipment, adaptations and adjustments that could help you to improve your independence.

GFI will also tell you about relevant local services, where to buy equipment, and the networks in your community that may be useful to you.

Why use Going For Independence?

If you are having difficulty managing activities such as:

- climbing stairs
- preparing meals
- gardening
- answering the door in time
- getting up out of a chair

... then our home assessment service can help you.

GFI services give you choice and control.

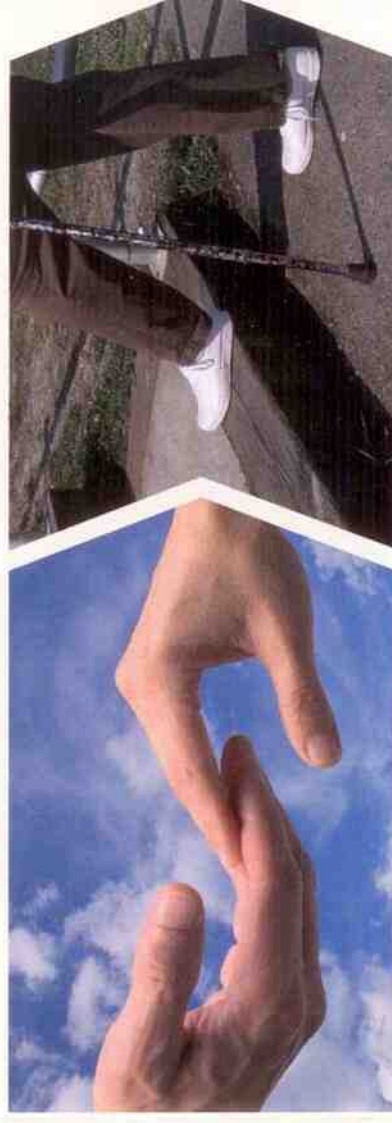

The importance of timely information

We know that the right information provided at the right time can be the key to maintaining health and wellbeing.

We aim to visit you within three days of your call. Assessments can be made on weekdays, evenings and weekends.

Going For Independence guarantees to:

- provide a prompt service
- give you a summary of your assessment
- use police-checked and trained personnel.

Paying for the assessment

The Going for Independence Community Interest Company is a social enterprise – we charge for our services but only cover our costs.

Our aim is to provide a value for money home assessment service, enabling you to choose the level of service you require.
